Khomeini: Iran must be "militarized"

"Take up arms against 'satanic power,'" he says

Tehran, Iran (UPI) - Sworn enemies of the United States, Iran and the United States are at loggerheads over the future of Iran. The United States, led by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, maintains that Iran is a threat to the region and the world. Iran, on the other hand, led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, maintains that the United States is a threat to Iran.

The United States, led by the "satanic power," has been putting pressure on Iran to give up its nuclear weapons program and to sever ties with its terrorist allies.

Iran, on the other hand, led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, maintains that the United States is a threat to Iran and must be "militarized." Khomeini, in a speech to his followers, said:

"We must learn to live in fear of our enemies. We must be prepared to defend ourselves against the United States. We must be ready to fight."
